WINE SPECTATOR

"Shows the classic 2012 profile of ripe, almost jammy cherry and strawberry fruit, yet has a vibrant personality. Floral, mineral and tobacco notes add depth as this glides to a long, mouthwatering aftertaste." Bruce Sanderson

WINE ADVOCATE

"Poggio di Sotto continues to impress with this stunning new vintage of its top-shelf wine. The 2012 Brunello di Montalcino Riserva shows volume and power; meanwhile, it brushes past the senses with the delicate flutter of a butterfly. The bouquet is infused with floral tones of red rose and lavender with fruity elements of cassis and wild cherry. You feel the warmth of the vintage specifically on the palate, where the weight and the density of the wine is more evident. There is a point of distinctive sweetness that lasts just for a moment, but that is a reoccurring theme in the 2012 Brunellos, generally speaking."

VINOUS

"Bright deep red. Delicate aromas of musky raspberry, flowers and savory herbs are complicated by earth tones. Then downright weightless on the palate, with floral, red berry, grilled smoked beef and spice flavors. Offers compelling, subtle sweetness and a light touch for such a big, concentrated wine. Finishes suave and very long, with outstanding lift and a more savory" Ian D'agata

"Lovely ripe cherries and discreet oak. Behind the ripeness is a very serious tannin structure that drives the long finish."
